

A new chapter for Siimon

Could Siimon Reynolds have moved on to his next 20-something author?

His last major amour, Kathryn Eisman, 22, wrote a book about men's shoes which propelled her to New York, where she is now adorning television screens and magazines.

The celebrity ad man seems unrestrained about his interest in yet another attractive author with loads of chutzpah, gorgeous Tali Shine, who has just penned The Glam Girl's Guide To Sydney Shopping. The book offers advice on where to shop, eat, party and be pampered like a princess in the city.

It was launched at a chic event at The Corner Shop last Tuesday, and Reynolds was one of the few men present. He seemed thrilled to see 22-year-old Shine again.

She recently interviewed him for an article on metrosexuals for 9 To 5 magazine.

Never one to be put off by a pesky age gap, Reynolds, who is almost on the threshold of 40, no doubt has a lot of wisdom and social know-how to impart to Shine (who has just returned from New York).

Expect to see them soon at an A-list function near you.

Gorgeous: Tali Shine

Thrilled: Siimon Reynolds